HAS ACQUIRED

Analytical Technologies Group ("ATG Service" or "ATG"), a portfolio company of Reynolda Equity Partners ("Reynolda"), has acquired InTech Scientific Solutions ("InTech").

Based in Providence, Rhode Island, ATG Service provides service, maintenance and repair for laboratory instruments critical in pharmaceutical research, development and manufacturing. ATG Service's customers include pharmaceutical and biotech companies, CDMO's, universities and government research institutions.

InTech is a provider of maintenance and repair services specializing in mass spectrometry and liquid chromatography instruments. Based in Brookline, New Hampshire, InTech provides a holistic approach to serving its customers, with an emphasis on Agilent branded instruments. Along with its complementary capabilities, InTech shares ATG's values of integrity, reliability and professionalism, which make it an ideal addition.

With the acquisition of InTech, ATG has now acquired six leading independent service providers under Reynolda's ownership. These acquisitions have expanded ATG's footprint from the West Coast to the United Kingdom and Europe and added service offerings across complementary instruments. The addition of InTech allows ATG to grow its mass spectrometry capabilities, offer an exciting service to ATG's customers, and expand the platform's addressable market.

The ATG deal team consists of Marshall White, Ken Clark and Cam Mulhall.
